My Learning Reflection (Self-Assessment & Exit Ticket)

How did I do today?

- [] Super! I understood all prices and quantities.
 [] Good! I understood most items, but numbers over 5 are a bit tricky.
 [] Need practice: I want to listen to the dialogue one more time.

My Favorite Word Today:

Word: _____

Target Sound: [/p/ in pineapple | /m/ in money]

TEACHER'S SCRIPT & ANSWER KEY (LISTENING LAB)

Pedagogical Implementation Guide • Audio Transcripts, Oral Modeling & Scoring Rubric

HOW TO CONDUCT THIS LISTENING LESSON IN THE CLASSROOM:

1. Pre-Listening (5 min): Point to the real images on the student worksheet (pineapple, apples, bananas, cassava, potatoes). Elicit their names. Model the initial phonemes /p/ (pineapple, potatoes) and /m/ (market, money).
2. First Listening (Gist): Read the audio script below at a natural, clear pace (or play the recorded audio). Students point to the pictures.
3. Second Listening (Detailed Tasks): Read each section pausing 5 seconds between items so students can circle, write numbers, and fill in dialogue blanks.
4. Post-Listening (Formative Check): Have student pairs compare their answers before revealing the answer key.

AUDIO TRANSCRIPT 1: Market Vendor Announcements (Part 1)

"Good morning, shoppers! Welcome to the Central Market. Here are today's fresh specials!

Item 1: Sweet fresh pineapples are only one dollar each! Yes, one dollar for a big pineapple.

Item 2: Crunchy red apples are one dollar each.

Item 3: Delicious ripe bananas are two dollars for a whole bunch.

Item 4: Fresh local cassava (yuca) is three dollars for a bag.

Item 5: Big baking potatoes are four dollars for a five-pound sack!"

AUDIO TRANSCRIPT 2: Mrs. Gonzalez's Shopping List (Part 2)

"Let me check my shopping list before I go to the stall. Today for our family soup, I need one pineapple for juice. I need five apples for the children's snack. I need three bananas. I need four potatoes, and I need two bags of cassava (yuca). That's everything on my list!"

AUDIO TRANSCRIPT 3: At the Cashier Counter (Part 3 & 4)

Cashier: "Hello! Good morning. Can I help you?"

Customer: "Yes, please! Excuse me, how much is the pineapple?"

Cashier: "It is one dollar."

Customer: "Great! And how many apples do you have?"

Cashier: "We have fresh red apples. How many do you need?"

Customer: "I need three apples and one banana, please."

Cashier: "Okay, one pineapple, three apples, and one banana. That is four dollars in total."

Customer: "Here is the money. Thank you!"
